

HE WILL NOT RUN

So Say Reports Coming From the City of Washington

GEN. ALGER WILL ANNOUNCE

In a few Days of His Withdrawal From the Race for the Presidential Nomination.

Detroit, April 17.—The Evening News received a dispatch tonight from Washington that General Alger will retire from the presidential race and his formal announcement to this effect will shortly be made public. This was the statement which was widely circulated in Washington yesterday afternoon shortly after General Alger's arrival. It was made with such positiveness and without qualification that it is generally accepted as true.

According to the report the general is not making any statement of his withdrawal just now but he will make it before long. He has been consulting closely and at length with many of his best friends. Up to this time the general has not given much apparent attention to the wisdom of his associates, but it is very generally understood that he will gracefully retire. General Alger's friends speak in the highest terms of his fitness for the presidential office, but they realize that President Harrison is undoubtedly going to be re-nominated. It was reported that General Alger would, within a reasonable period, make a formal and public announcement of his withdrawal from the contest. Report says that, proud as he would be of the honor of the republican nomination, he will not permit his ambition to breed strife within the republican party. "It's news to me," answered the general to the question concerning the widely circulated report, "and I know nothing about it."

It was learned later that the general had a lengthy conference with Secretary E. Kins, the main political lieutenant of President Harrison, and this was soon followed by a conference at the White House, during which the president and General Alger had a very free and full talk. The subjects discussed and the results are mere surmise, although President Harrison received assurances that General Alger would soon remove what seems to be the last obstacle in the way of the president's re-nomination.

On the other hand, friends of General Alger, who are very near to him, deny the reports as inventions by the emissaries of the administration who are bent upon crushing all opposition. These friends of the general insist that he is still in the race as much as he ever was.

BAILEY AND THE WIDOW.

Charged with Bigamy He Now Waits Anxiously for Trial.

HOMER, April 17.—A genuine sensation occurred here this afternoon when it became known that George Bailey, a citizen of this place for a number of years, had been arrested on a charge of bigamy. Several years ago he, it is claimed, married Mrs. Bailey No. 1, and they have five children. Then he deserted her and went to Woodstock, Lenawee county, where it is alleged he assumed the name of Charles W. Smith and married a woman named Betsey Lair, whom he lived with seven years and became the father of five more children. Then he became tired of wife No. 2 and skipped out again for parts unknown. He soon showed up in this city, where he succeeded in getting a divorce from wife No. 1 a year ago, then took unto himself a buxom widow named Slater, with whom he was living when arrested.

THROUGH THE BRAIN.

Accidental Discharge of a Revolver Brings Unexpected Death.

BELLEVEUE, April 17.—Hugh B. Savigney, resident manager of a large jewelry store here owned by F. W. Savigney of Detroit, met a tragic death this evening by the accidental discharge of a revolver. Snatch & Wesson make, newest pattern, thirty-eight caliber. He was exhibiting the revolver to his friend Henry Lucas, when it was discharged, the ball entering his brain and causing almost instant death, there being no movement of the body except at the extremities. The deceased was one of Belleveue's best young men, and was exceedingly well connected. His mother owns large millinery stores in Lansing and Bay City, and his brother is a prominent artist at Detroit.

TWO BROTHERS STABBED.

They Would Not Treat a Crowd and Were Attacked—One May Die.

DETROIT, April 17.—Frank and Max Gerah, two brothers living respectively at the corner of Junction and Porter streets and on Tillman avenue, when returning home from downtown last night, stopped in a saloon on Tillman avenue to get a drink. There was a crowd of men in the saloon and the brothers were asked to set up the drinks for the crowd, but refused. As they were leaving the place one of the party which they had met in the saloon crept up behind them and stabbed both of them a number of times. Max was badly cut about the head, face and shoulders, and Frank received a wound in the back which penetrated the lung and will probably prove fatal. Doctor Kennedy was called to attend the men, and decided to send Frank to Grace hospital, and he was taken there in the ambulance attached to the institution.

PILLOWS AND BLANKETS.

Officers Find a Mass of Stolen Property at the Den of Lew Robb.

BENTON HARBOR, April 17.—Turnkey Lester and Deputy Sheriff Osgood went to Lew Robb's home this morning and secured eighteen pillows, twenty-seven blankets and four bedspreads that he and Vance, co-partners in the gambling den, house of ill-fame, and the attempted murder of Mayor Hobbs, had stolen from Graham & Morton's steamers City of Chicago and Puritan. The mother of Robb was away and is supposed to know nothing of these goods. Lowery, the darkey discharged on examination, has been re-arrested for criminal knowledge connected with the affair. The authorities are determined to go to the bottom of the matter.

And Now Kalamazoo.

KALAMAZOO, April 17.—The Methodist ladies of this very lively town, struck the Otago fad Friday and yesterday met together to narrate their experience. The money was rounded up in a dishpan, and here's a sample "experience" of one, Miss Borden, who went first to bat, in base ball parlance, and said she accepted any honorable work that came along, ranging from cleaning spittoons and sweeping out offices to peddling popcorn. Into the dishpan she dumped her mite—$3.25 in juggling silver.

Wants the Votes Counted Again.

HOWELL, April 17.—Edson J. Wilbur, republican, yesterday filed a petition with the judge of probate for a recount of the votes on township clerk in this Howell township under act No. 239, laws of 1887, alleging error in the count. The vote on clerk seems to be short, on total vote, about twenty as compared with other candidates.

General State News.

George Ransom's barn in Hartwick, was struck by lightning last Monday night, killing one of his mules and three head of cattle. Mr. Ransom, his wife and hired girl were in the barn at the time and were badly hurt; Mr. Ransom being knocked down and stunned, while his wife and hired girl were badly burned by the lightning. All three will recover.

The lock-up at Iron River burned down for the second time within a year. This time an old woman, who had been on a "tear" was the only occupant. There was no attendant, and when the fire was discovered the flames were seen coming from the cell occupied by the old woman lying helplessly drunk, and who perished in the flames.

A Battle Creek man recently filled a bottle from each of the five sources from which the city gets its water—Gogneau lake, Mud lake, Minges brook, the river and the town pump—and placed them on exhibition in the recorder's office. Not a city official has since been taken water on the side, and a bath or washed his face.

In 1890 Pentwater's population was 1694, with a registered voting strength of 382. At the recent election the list of voters had increased to 458. Therefore, says The News, the present population must be very near to 1938, and Pentwater is gratified at the showing. Pentwater deserves its success.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

The Composer of Pinafore Suffering from Renal Calculus.

Although there is no immediate danger, still the case of Sir Arthur Sullivan is a serious one, and the composer of Pinafore is suffering severely from a serious attack of renal calculus. The Prince of Wales was about to call upon the musician, when, hearing how serious his illness was, concluded not to bother Sir Arthur with a visit.

The composer of Pinafore, Trial by Jury, Pirates of Penzance, and Cox and Box, was the son of a London musician, and born in 1844. In 1855 he was a choir boy in the Chapel Royal at St. James. Two years later he gained the Mendelssohn scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music and studied under Goss and Bennett. He afterwards continued his studies at Leipzig and, on returning to England, entered upon that career in which he was to win such eminence and distinction. The Prigal Song and The Light of the World at once became popular, while his music to Shakespeare's Tempest obtained a great success. His source and sacred music placed him among the leading composers of the day. But Pinafore after all, is the basis of his fame. No other piece, within a like period, has ever been played so many times or in so many different places. When first brought out in England, it failed to gain extraordinary success, though necessarily ephemeral, success it obtained when reproduced in America, towards the end of 1878. At that time Mr. Sullivan, with W. S. Gilbert, came to New York to superintend the production of Pinafore under his personal leadership.

Cambridge university conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Music in 1876, and he was English delegate to the Commission des Auditions Musicales to the Paris exposition in 1878, when he was made chevalier of the Legion of Honor. Sullivan has, for a number of years, worked in conjunction with W. S. Gilbert, who wrote the words of Pinafore and Pirates of Penzance. Before the meeting Mr. Gilbert, he had written many cantatas, operettas, oratorios and ballads, exactly suited to the public taste. He is a genial, companionable man, and during his visit to this country gained many friends.

The recent quarrel between Sullivan and Gilbert has aroused much interest both in this country and in England, on account of the high repute of those concerned in the controversy.

The Collapse of a Rotten Tenement. With crumbling foundation and shaky, bulging walls, is not more certainly to be looked for than the sudden giving way of a constitution sapped by overwork, unrelenting anxiety or exposure to hardship and malnutrition. Against the disastrous effects of each and all of these, Hostett's Kitchener Bitters is an effective safeguard. It fortifies the system against the influence of fresh vice, begotten of renewed and complete digestion and assimilation of the food, and its consequent reparative action upon the exhausted tissues and impoverished circulation. No preparation for the undergoing, without injury, of an unusual amount of bodily or mental work, no means of averting malaria, infection, or disorders born of bed rest and impure water, equals this superiorly the dietary invigorant. Take it for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, rheumatism, kidney trouble, is a gripe.

You are perhaps, and we think you are, already quietly working a scheme to slip away about April 30 for a trial with the speckled beauties, and we want to give you a pointer. The new line of railroad from Traverse City to Elk Rapids, by the way of Acme, Williamsburg, Angella, etc., is twenty miles long, and it crosses some of the fine trout streams which flow into the east arm of Traverse bay and Elk lake. They have been fished, perhaps, but not to any great extent, and for convenience of access, opportunity, result, etc., are as promising as any up that way. There are three streams near Williamsburg that are said to be first-class.

BUT if you want to get farther away you can go to Elk Rapids by rail and take the little steamer which runs from that place down Elk lake nine miles, through Round lake and Torch river, to and up Torch lake eighteen miles, and get off at any of the many streams which run into these several lakes, and all of which are well stocked with trout. The boat stops at Skagemo, Torch river bridge, Spencer creek, Clam river, Ball's Landing, Russell's, Torch lake and Eastport. Torch river bridge is near the mouth of Rapid river, and which, as all Easterners know, is a most reliable trout stream. Spencer creek landing is at the mouth of Spencer creek, another of the famous trout streams. Clam river is where Clam lake empties into Torch lake, and the numerous streams which run into Clam lake are worth looking into. If you want to get farther off yet it is only two miles from Russell's across to intermediate chain of lakes, and there you have a continuous succession of connected waters in lakes and streams for thirty-five miles. If you will send to this office you can get a new map of that region. Address, GEO. DELLAVOR, Gen'l. Pass'g. Agt.
